

The
Greatest Fire

London
by Chaucer

In 1666 London
was one of the biggest
cities in the world.

It was a
very busy
place having
with people and
buildings on a
narrow streets.
The houses
were so ~~close~~
close people
could shake
hands across
the street
from their
windows.

On the 1st
September Thomas

Farriner was busy
working for Charles

|| Unfortunate
Thomas
started to put down a stray

ember set aside
to the bonfire.

BY Monday
3rd September
8th
the fire was
going
The flames
The lit up the
night
and the sky
every thing in ash
like snow.

On TUESDAY
4th SEPTEMBER
a big fire started
in the town
and it spread
to the houses
and the people
The people
were trying to save the
town

try to start
the flames.
many people
along the river. the

W. London was
unreliable
in 1666
rule was
only with
and
christopher
wren
st pauls
cathedral.